EDITORIAL

The ever interesting, ever expressive industry of radio seems to us the logical theme for our book. The modernity, scope and influence of radio were contributing factors to our choice. We feel that the growth of radio should serve us as an example of imagination and fortitude which we would do well to follow. Just as radio advances, each day becoming more important, each year accomplishing greater things, so shall we hope to advance. Radio, great industry as it is today, had many years of struggling for recognition, spent many years in developing and perfecting itself. We have also spent years of apprenticeship with the ever present hope that we too may become successful and contribute in some way to the civilization of Tomorrow.

The Dial Turns

Over land and sea
Comes a voice that sings;
Life and love and laughter
Speed on unseen wings.

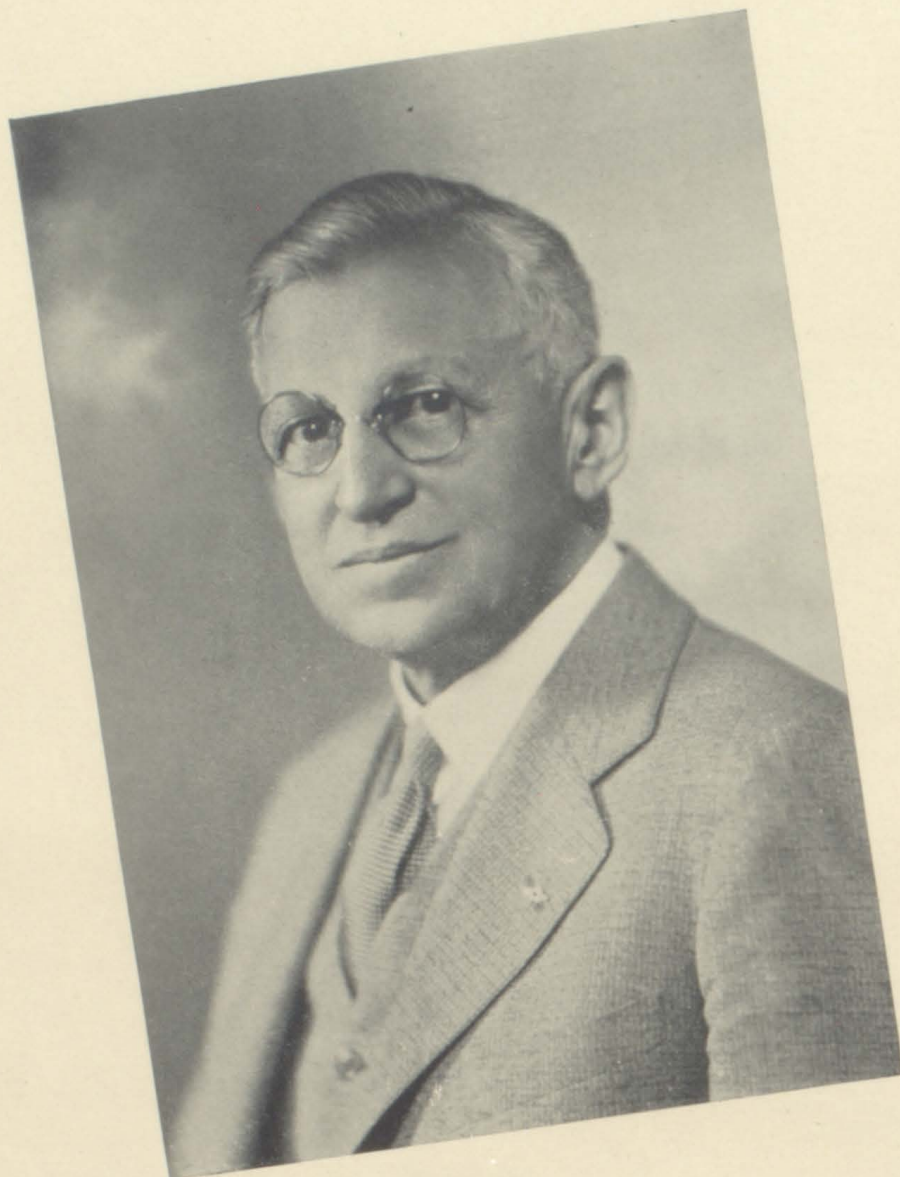

Only those may hear it
Whose ears have been attuned.

Through the endless ages
And from land to land
The bright torch of learning
Is flung from hand to hand.

Only those may grasp it
Whose minds have been attuned.

WILLIAM A. ROSENTHAL

MR. RAYMOND
B. GURLEY

State Championship Team

For the years '33, '34, '35, '36, the Barringer High School Fencing Team has won the Interscholastic State Championship Fencing Title. In 1935 the team took fourth place in the Metropolitan Fencing Tournament, in which it had previously won first place and became the first fencing team team to place twice in the Metropolitan Championship. The team is captained by Diaz Cetrulo. Adding more glory to its record the team has gone undefeated in eighty-three dual meets. The members of the team have consistently placed high in all of the Amateur Fencing League of America meets. Paul Riccardi, Patsy Marzulli, William Rosenthal, and Louis Couzzi have been victorious in many dual as well as A. F. L. A. meets.

The splendid record which the team has compiled undoubtedly makes them the strongest High School Fencing team in the United States. The team has been coached by Dr. Gerald Cetrulo, himself a fine fencer, who is wholly responsible for the excellent record of our Fencing Team.

Out in '35 for Fencing, "Lou" Couzzi easily made the Junior Varsity. Returning in '36 as a member of the Varsity, he earned his major "B". He was also a member of the undefeated State Championship Team.

"Erb" D'Anton secured his wreath "B" as manager of Barringer's undefeated Fencing Team. He was out for fencing in '35 and became manager of the State Championship Team in '36.

As Class B State Champion, a member of the State Championship Team, and a member of the team undefeated in 75 dual meets, Patsy Marzulli has garnered one Major "B" and one wreath "B".

The only left-handed fencer on Barringer's all victorious Team, Paul Riccardi, was undefeated in four of the six dual meets in which he participated. A member of the State Championship Team, and runner-up for strip B honors, Paul richly deserves the major "B" that is his.

A severe attack of illness kept "Willie" Rosenthal, called the "Flash" by his fellow fencers, out of competition in '36. However in '34 and '35 his work had been so good that he was awarded the prized block "B". He was also a member of the undefeated State Championship Fencing Team.

The football season of 1936 was opened with a short practice period before our first game with Paterson Central, which ended in a tie. This did not show the true merits of the team. However, the following week we defeated Irvington by a score of 6—2. The next week we played West Side and by a bad break the game ended in a tie. When the boys played South Side two weeks later, they were beaten 13—0. They came back on the following Saturday lusting for vengeance and beat East Side by the score of 13—0. The next game was with Central ending in a 0—0 tie. The following week the team traveled down to Camden and kept their record by a 6—6 tie. The last game, which was the East Orange game, was the best of the season. The boys played well and defeated East Orange 6—0. The man whom the school can thank for this successful season is Coach Victor Salerno.

Both a track and football man, Louis Del Tufo earned a major "B" in each of these sports. As a football man, he was mentioned prominently for all city honors.

Three major "B's" are in the possession of Maurice Julian, the captain in '36 of our Football Team. Two of these letters were earned in the year '34 and one more in '35, at which time he made the All City Team.

Horace Kee was without a doubt, the best backfield man that Barringer's Football Team has had in the past four years. His open field running was the sensation of many games. He leaves us with three block "B's."

In '34 and '35 Tony Mercogliano, playing end on our Football Team, became the proud possessor of two block "B's". In '36 as fullback "Merk" won another major letter. Then by throwing the javelin in '34 another major letter was added to his collection. Breaking the City and State records, Tony once more received a major "B".

In '33 Angelo Jicomo was an outstanding intramural baseball player and in '34, as an outfielder on the team that reached the finals of the Greater Newark Tournament, he earned his first "B". Again in '35, he was a factor in Barringer's long string of victories. He leaves with two major "B's."

JOSEPH A. VON ARX

Barringer Champion

The man behind the scenes in Cross Country is Coach Arthur R. Payton, who has held this position since 1930. He has developed the boys who have passed under his supervision from "pluggers" into City Champions. During the six years he has been in charge, his teams have added a number of trophies to our large collection. Besides winning City Championships, the cross country team has won All City Honors and were always within the first three places in the State Meet. Every year Barringer enters the National, which is the last meet of the year, and runs against the best fifty teams in the nation. In these meets Barringer has never fallen lower than tenth place, and the best they have done was sixth. This year the team presented two beautiful trophies to the school. They received these for winning the City Championship and being the first team to finish in the County and the National.

Undefeated in all dual meets was the record of Cross Country Team in the year '35. For his successful guidance in the team, Jack King, manager, was rewarded with a major "B".

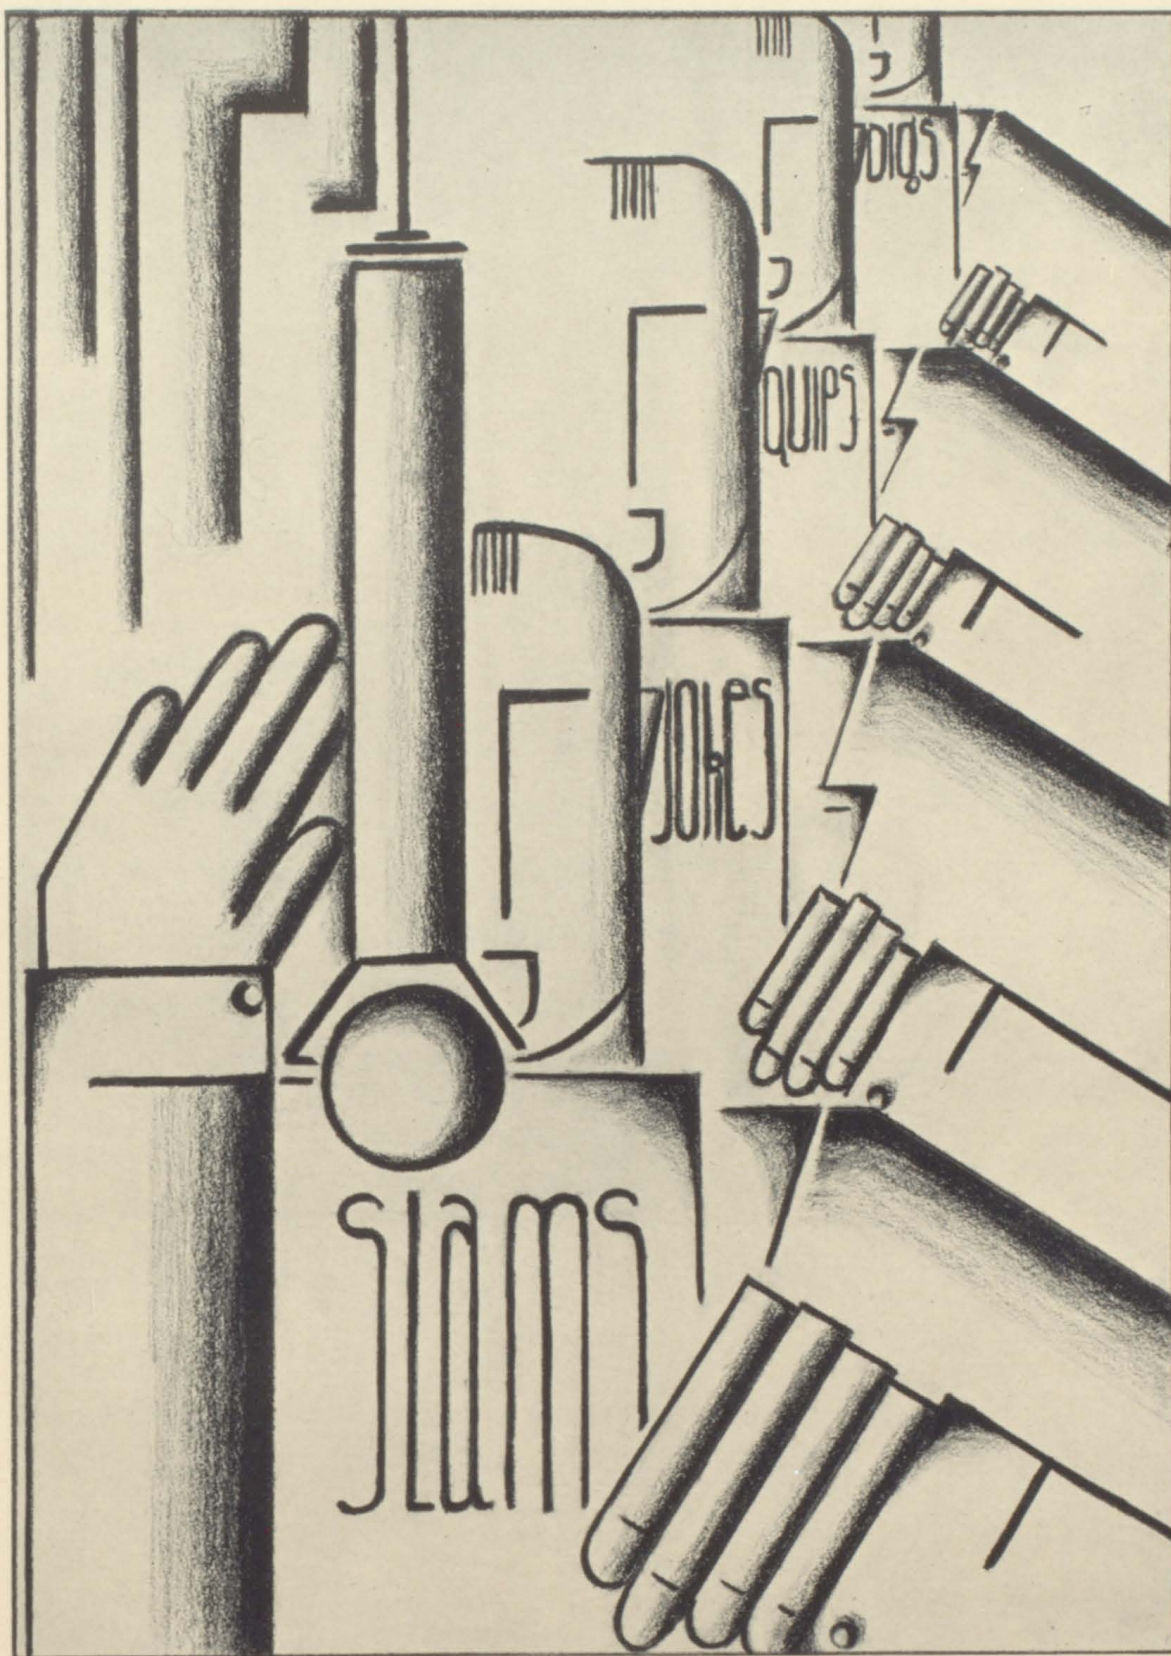

'34 was the year Bill Meade earned his first major letter. Two years later he was elected captain of the Cross Country Team, and again earned a block "B".

Being the youngest member of the Cross Country Team didn't keep "Jimmie" Poet from "going places." Though not up to his finest mettle in '35, Jimmie came back to win a surprising victory in the City Half-Mile Championship for Juniors, and thus became a "B" man.

As the hard working assistant manager in '34 of the Track Team, Bennie Vernatiko was appointed manager in '35. For his efforts in this position he received a block "B".

Six letters are the total number in the possession of "Baron" Von Arx, three of them earned in track in '34, '35 and '36, and three more earned in Cross Country in the same years. He was the most consistent winner in Cross Country meets during these years, and in '36 he was undoubtedly our best cross country man.

The Story of Radio

The theme that has been chosen for this yearbook represents an industry which plays a most important part in our daily lives. It affects many of our social, educational and recreational activities to a high degree yet, as an industry, it has been in existence scarcely fifteen years. Its history is a most interesting one and is very closely connected with our own great city of Newark.

When we look back and see what the early days of radio broadcasting were like, we are surprised to learn that the popular station WJZ, which is now located at spacious quarters in New York City, began as a tiny station in Newark, New Jersey, in the Westinghouse meter factory located at Orange and Plane Streets. On October 1, 1921, the new station celebrated its opening by the reading of bulletins on a World Series game, which were secured from the "Newark Sunday Call". In an office not far from the transmitter, there was gathered a small group of men. They sat about a huge contraption called a receiver, which required two men to keep properly tuned, while each one took his turn at listening to the thin voice in the earphones and marveled that the voice was coming from a distance of at least half a mile.

Those early broadcasting days were not without their interspersions of humorous incidents. One day, in the summer of 1922, a popular soprano was singing on a WJZ program. It being a very hot day and the small studio having no modern air conditioning, the studio windows were thrown open. The soprano was doing her utmost before the microphone when suddenly there was an uncanny outburst of howling and screeching which came from a back fence just outside the studio windows. A moment later two tumbling, spitting Tom cats leaped into the studio and continued to settle their differences on the studio floor before the microphone. Of course, they stole the show.

Sixteen telephone calls and five hundred letters poured their way into the station in the next few days. All demanded to know what it was that had so completely disrupted the artist's transmission. The inquirers soon learned the truth, and two Tom cats scored a permanent place in broadcasting history.

While WJZ was pioneering in New York metropolitan area, there were other stations which had also begun to serve the public. Among these was WOR, the radio station of L. Bamberger & Company, "One of America's Great Stores, located at Newark, N. J." This station began with a small transmitter, in a modest sort of way, but, due to the right spirit and a determination to serve the public in an unselfish way, grew rapidly in power and popularity, into the great station we know today.

Thus we publish our yearbook with the ideas, suggested to us by radio broadcasting, made evident in its pages, to help unify the contents and stimulate interest in much the same way that radio broadcasting has unified and stimulated interest in our country and in our community.

Time Stagers On

This broadcast is coming to you over Station WBHS, February 1933.

At Barringer High School in Newark today a goodly number of bright young things entered as freshman. They were advised by the high and mighty seniors to take the "pink elevator" to reach classes on the third floor. Consequently they wandered aimlessly about the halls looking for the "pink elevator." There was supposed to be a young man by the name of Jack King in this class, but no one could seem to locate him. Public opinion is that he got lost in the crowd. However an investigation is under way, and I shouldn't be surprised if he showed up in a few days. I'll keep you posted on the news flashes regarding Mr. King.

Time Marches on! ! !

FEBRUARY 1934.

The freshmen of Barringer High School about whom I was talking in my last broadcast are now Sophomores. There are not quite as many, and they seem to have a more intelligent expression on their faces; however that may only be an optical illusion. Joe Von Arx is giving his mouth plenty of exercise, but someone is moving in on his territory. That someone is that brilliant student, Helen Offinger.

P. S. Jack King was found a few days later as I predicted and is doing nicely, thank you.

Time Marches on! ! !

We have a new organization in our midst—the Junior class of Barringer High School. For their leader they have chosen Joe Von Arx (I always knew that talking would get him somewhere!) Their vice-president is Janet Richliano, and Marian Spada will take of the "nuts", pardon me, I mean notes of the 3A class meetings. The money-handler, otherwise known as the treasurer, is Patsy Marzulli. (Here's luck to you, Patsy! You'll probably need it!) The advisors chosen for this class are Mr. Buhrman, that up and coming science teacher, and Miss Sterner, that ingenious teacher of the English language. I know these two fine people will help pull this class through any scrapes they may get in.

In order to swell the treasury, the 3A class gave a super-colossal dance with a stupenduous floor show. It was the first dance of this kind in Barringer. Hurrah! Anything for a novelty! There were so many people at the dance that you could stand still in the center of the floor and be danced (or pushed) to one end of the room and back again.

Anyway they all had a grand time, and it was a great success. A large part of the success was due to the untiring efforts of Miss Helen Sasso. Here's to you, Helen!

Time Marches on! ! !

JANUARY 1936.

The new Senior's B's were so pleased with the efforts of their class officers of last term that they decided to keep them on for another administration. This was a very enjoyable and prosperous year for the 4B class. The first thing they got underway was the sale of pennants with Patsy Marzulli and Ed Hostos displaying excellent salesmanship.

The Assembly periods were enlivened by the program of old English ballads presented by the 4B's. I'm sure if there had been any Broadway producers at Barringer that day the class would be minus some of their great talent. (Really, Alma Nilsson, that was a most realistic fall into that picturesque pond the stagehands erected.)

Besides the "smooth" Christmas dance, which was held a week before the holidays, the class was in charge of the successful Reception to the Senior A's.

Time Marches on! ! !

SEPTEMBER 1936.

Ah, at last the moment supreme! 4 A's! Genuine Seniors! How far the road seemed four years ago, and how glorious and sad is the end now that they have reached it! The officers who led the class since they organized are the same except for the vice-president. That very efficient little lady, Grace Grant, is the president's right hand man this term.

Nothing slow about this class! Hardly had a month and a half of school elapsed before they put forth for the enjoyment of the rest of the school and their friends, one of their unusual dances. And it was another "hit"!

May the happiness and success that has followed the class of January '37 through their four years at Barringer High School continue in the future.

Your commentator was Anita Ganot.

"Our show is ended; may its memory linger on" — The class of January 1937.

Through the Keyhole

FLASH! — Joseph Von Arx was just appointed United States Ambassador to Spain by President Jeanne Van Voorhis. "Von Arx," says Jeanne, "is the only American who can compete with the fast-talking Spaniards."

James Poet, the successor to Rudolph Valentino, has signed a long term contract with the Merritt Colehamer Productions. His first picture will be a revised screen version of Romeo and Juliet, directed by Anthony Petrozzino, the popular director, and co-starring the beautiful and talented dramatist, Helen Offinger. Supporting these screen lovers will be: Helen Hendrickson, Marion Spada, John Kenneally, Jim Rotonda, Dorothy Smith and Peter Dinos.

FLASH! — Jerry Immersi, world heavyweight fistic champion, has been signed by manager Anthony Altiero to meet contender John Calvert in the near future. Calvert's manager, Philip Metro, is confident of an easy victory.

Professor Elizabeth Wambsganss of Starboard has successfully completed her analysis of the famous scientist Lang Stine's theory of Bellativity. The professor is resting at the home of the newly married Ed Hostoses. This incidentally makes Hostos' sixth venture in matrimony.

FLASH! — William Rosenthal, noted Communist, was slightly injured today in Central Park when the soap box he was using for a platform collapsed. Rosenthal intends to sue the Charles Ambrose Wood Company.

EXTRA! — The nationwide search for Anthony LaMalfa, famous airplane designer is still under way. You may recall that LaMalfa hasn't been heard from since he stepped into an open manhole while waving to a gorgeous blond. Ace city detective Mario Tuosto is in charge of the case and is confident he will find something eventually.

ATTENTION! — Jack Harris' new musical comedy, "The Lonely Lover," opened last night and according to critics is due for a record run. Principals are: Margot Imhoff, Florence Chiego, Florence Hodes and Louise Lupo. Paul Riccardi, noted artist, designed the scenery.

FLASH! — Armand Forte, radio jester, has retired from the ether and is Alaska bound to sell Panama Hats. Among the large and noisy crowd of friends who helped put him on the train were noticed: Barbara Kempf, America's best dressed and quietest socialite, pretty Hilda Birk, blues singer, and Horace Kee, professional football star.

SPORTS EXTRA! — Louis Couzzi and Michael Petrone, American Olympic fencers, returned to the States today with international honors.

FLASH! — Frank Greco's painting, "Spirit of May," is missing from the B. Snooty Art Galleries. Galleries' manager, Walter Ghirlanda, said that orders had been given him to toss out the picture as the artist had used non-union thumb tacks.

ATTENTION EVERYONE PLEASE! — William Davis' orchestra, featuring Ray Parsons, soloist, has been kidnapped by aroused neighbors. The orchestra practiced Republican theme songs in a Democratic locality.

SOCIETY!! — Among the merrymakers in Harold Greenberg's Blue Ribbon Club last night were: America's sweetheart, Martha Thomas; Actress Ruth Lynne; composer Max Berlin; comic of the air waves, Peter Luzzi; city clerk, William Meade; surgeoness, Ethel Black; politician, Frank Gonnella; professor, Michal Lione; G-man John Meo; columnist Angelo Giacomo; Follies' Star, Pauline Rotundo; mayor Edward Evans; insurance salesman, Mario Scafati; Threelanes' football coach, Maurice Julian; and dance marathon winner, Nick Milano.

FLASH! — Marion Heinemann, Governor of New Jersey, will run for the Presidency next year, announces Helen Sasso, Republican national campaign manager. Miss Van Voorhis will not seek reelection as she is completing her second term. She feels that four years more in the White House would interfere with her sewing circle meetings, at which her cabinet members have achieved such marvelous patchwork quilts. Secretary of War, Grace Grant, is completing a handsewn American flag which is to be flown by our newest rocket cruiser.

ATTENTION! — The widespread undertakers' strike ended last night. Frank Commerci, recently elected national leader, agreed to mediate Congressman Patrick Casciano's terms after a thirty-six hour conference.

SCOOP! — Dorothy Bixon, noted actress, returned from Atlantis with her third titled husband, Count Von Hundred, yesterday on the new super Zeppelin Y. Other prominent passengers were: Victor Tarant, the lad with the million dollar smile; tennis expert, Charles Brine; cinematic star, Anna Ciafarone; Mary Fairscey, popular dietician; and the world famous Jazz dancer, Virginia Conner.

FROM THE SCIENTIFIC WORLD — We hear that Erbert D'Anton, America's foremost surgeon, successfully revived a man who had been dead for three days.

EXTRA! — Louise Davis, prominent woman biologist, today was given the new governmental award of ten thousand dollars for the one who aided humanity most in 1954.

FLASH! — The debut of Anita Ganot, symphonic soloist, was interrupted six times today by Carroll Niederberger, local musician, who tried to accompany Miss Ganot from his place in the theatre's balcony.

ODDITIES IN THE NEWS! — So Be It officials refuse to allow Vincent D'Auria into their country, claiming Vincent was too radical. Marie Sibilia, stenographer, was awarded a gold medal today by the Crony Typewriter company for her two-hundred-word-a-minute record on a new Crony electric machine. Until a few hours ago Miss Sibilia was employed by the Criket Typewriter Company.

Scientist Warren Davis today announced his discovery of a non-explosive gun powder for neutral nations.

Mildred Booth, winner of last year's Vogel Peace Prize, is a member of the new women's national guard.

Utilities magnate John Whelan of the Touch and Jump Electric Power syndicate does not use electricity in his home because he thinks it's shocking.

FLASH! — For the sixth consecutive year John Arthur, American free style wizard, won the English Channel free for all.

EXTRA! — Patsy Marzulli, noted banker, has decided to sink all his money in a new type of submarine craft. John Brown, the inventor, claims that his sub is like a fish. "In fact," says Brown, "it is fishy."

STYLE NOTES! — Miss Marion Reynolds, noted style expert, returned today from Paris and startled the fashion world by wearing a suit of gold armor which the French gave her as part of the war debt.

SCOOP! — In their eighteenth annual reunion the class of January 1937 agreed today that the years spent in Barringer were their happiest.

This is Roy Thompson signing off.

Commencement

Looking ahead, the marchers in solemn processions,
Think of things to come, with eager and sad expressions.

ROY THOMPSON

Dusk

Black, brooding beauty
Outlined on silver, white
Flecked shadows of rock
And tree! Crags boldly
Protruding from retiring hills
Like some gigantic fantasy
Of fabulous ages long past! A tree,
Its slender branches swaying,
Breaks the dark monotony of falling day.

WILLIAM A. ROSENTHAL

One Jewel

I saw an emerald,
Deeply cool,
Filled with a living world.

And next a diamond,
Brightly false
Sharp and deadly sham.

One was my love,
Dear love,
That other—you.

JEANNE VAN VOORHIS

Human Nature

Kind hearted man, he feeds the hungry birds . . . . .
An old broken man begging alms approaches.
Kind hearted man spat and uttered
harsh word.
Kind hearted man . . . . .

All Are Bold

Against the horizon
All things are bold
Ships
And trees
All are bold . . .
Against the horizon.

Sue Crashes Heaven

"So this is New York, the metropolis of the world!" exclaimed pretty Sue Dade, her big blue eyes wide with wonder and excitement. The other members of the party, however, were not given over to "oh's and ah's", so Sue found herself being somewhat forcibly dragged after the group by her austere and assuredly stern teacher. "Can't waste time on musings," snapped Mrs. Evans. "We are late to the studio now."

In a few minutes, after a hurried descent into a subway and just as hurried ascent to Broadway, the ten seniors and their lone leader were standing quietly in a still quieter elevator, which carried them swiftly upwards toward the turrets of an impressive skyscraper.

"Remember!" warned Mrs. Evans, "Try to act like dignified seniors, and Sue, please don't get lost again; twice is enough for even a person as inquisitive as you."

"Yes, Mrs. Evans," chorused the group with just the right pitch and tone expected of Barrington 4A's. Then the door glided open and forgetting their promises the "terrible creatures," as Mrs. Evans privately put it, sallied into the corridor with blatant enthusiasm. A glare, that only the journalism instructress could attain, and the seniors were again subdued.

"We are from Barrington High School, Richfield, and we made arrangements to visit—," began Mrs. Evans in her best classroom voice as she spied a preoccupied, glamorous girl seated behind a large desk which prominently displayed the sign, 'STATION WHY'. Stopping her rehearsed speech, Mrs. Evans spluttered. The girl hadn't even noticed her! Then from a camouflaged speaker floated the melodious heart capturing voice of Bing Cupid, radio's handsome crooner, who was featured on the Catchem Lipstick Hour.

Quietude, absolute quietude, filled the corridor. Mrs. Evans' perturbed look changed into one of complete happiness. The five girls assumed attitudes of rapt attentiveness and the five boys, perceiving the absence of feminine conversation, looked around for the cause.

Needless to say, the silent corridor remained quiet until Bing finished his opening number, and then, much to the boys' relief, the now attentive girl listened to Mrs. Evans' repeated speech, at the close, pushed a button, and in walked a living Greek statue. The girls stared with sparkling eyes, and the boys skeptically wondered if the uniformed Adonis could play football or box. With a studied nod and graceful bow the guide placed himself in command of the expedition.

"This," explained Mr. Crabtree, the guide, "is our largest studio—it contains enough room to present a symphony concert or a miniature war."

"Now students," added Mrs. Evans, "please notice the microphones."

"Oh yes, the microphones!" murmured the tour conductor, who was now surrounded with admiring femininity, "They are the latest style, and I might add, the most expensive."

"What's in here?" inquired Betty Gaddis, one of the students, whose curiosity led her to approach a large door marked Studio Two.

"Don't go in," cautioned the guide. "Bing Cupid is in there." His announcement made the door assume wondrous proportions of mysteriousness.

The concentrated gazing attack on the door was unexpectedly superseded by Mrs. Evans. "Sue, oh Sue!" She suddenly called, finding only four permanent waves clustered about the tall guide. "Sue! Pupils, where is Sue?" asked the teacher becoming more excited every second.

"She was here a minute ago," said Tommy Day, who usually knew just where to find Sue.

"What shall I do?" queried the agitated instructress, frantically wringing her hands.

"The police!" cried Sally Brown, using the drama manuals' best frightened pose. "They always call the police in mystery stories."

"Please don't become alarmed," begged Mr. Crabtree, who was not very calm himself. "I'm sure she has just wandered off some place; this is a large building."

Nearly an hour of frantic searching had passed since Sue's disappearance. Studio detective James O'Malley felt that the police should be notified, but Mrs. Evans refused to consider the idea. "If the school board ever finds out!" she groaned. "Why, a thing like this has never before happened in Barrington's history." So the poor teacher busied herself by seeing that the restless and hungry students were anchored and fed. Her wails did the anchoring, and sent-for sandwiches did the feeding. The handsome guide appointed himself doctor when Mrs. Evans, with a shriek, suddenly and thoroughly fainted, the detective decided he'd better make another attempt to find the girl, and the seniors were again freshmen as they happily said, "Wait'll the kids hear about this!"

"We didn't look in here," said O'Malley approaching the door labeled Studio Two.

"Good grief!" shouted the guide, deserting Mrs. Evans and grabbing the detective, "They're using that studio. Why, Bing Cupid is in there!"

"And why shouldn't Mr. Cupid be disturbed?" asked the detective, "This child is more important than a mere crooner any day."

"That door is never opened unless one has a pass. She couldn't possibly be there," placated Mr. Crabtree.

"All right! All right! Guess you know more about this part of the studio than I do," mumbled the sleuth as he counted the many doors along the corridor.

Slowly the dejected teacher recovered consciousness, and then visions of the probable consequences of Sue's wandering made her gasp and settle back into another faint, much to everyone's vexation. Mr. Crabtree wearily turned doctor once more.

"Say, young man," said Jim O'Malley, "will you tell me everything that happened on this trip please?"

"Well, it was 3:30 when we left Richfield. We are all Mrs. Evans' students, and she thought of the trip as a way to get material for descriptive writing. When we arrived in New York, we took a subway and came directly here."

"Did Sue mention anything to you that might help us in locating her?" asked the officer.

"No," replied Tommy, "she just talked about the trip, and when she got lost the second time, she laughed and whispered that Mrs. Evans would surely flunk her if she got lost again."

"She got lost twice before you came here!" cried O'Malley, "Why didn't you tell me? How did you find her?"

"We didn't exactly find her," explained Tommy. "The first time she found us, and the second time we accidentally met her as she came out of a candy shop. She really didn't mean to get lost; she just wandered away."

"I confess I'm puzzled," admitted the detective. "What a case! The teacher fainting, a girl missing, and me having a date with Sally in twenty minutes!"

An air of mutual despondency settled over the group. They all finally seated themselves in chairs placed so that Mrs. Evans and Studio Two's door were the main objects of interest. As Mrs. Evans had recovered and just moaned, though ever so heartrendingly, the party transferred their gaze to the studio door. It was an unusual door, high, wide, and fit to grace the entrance of a palace. Its jewelled letters and golden sheen made it almost unreal. The watchers waited, each one wishing for something to break the awful monotony, and then something did happen. The door of Studio Two slowly opened.

The girls, and even Mrs. Evans, sat up straight. Maybe they'd see the one and only Bing Cupid! Sure enough they did see him but the person who caught and held their attention was not Bing, but Sue Dade, who was walking at Bing's side, her big blue eyes glistening. When she at last realized that her classmates were staring at her and Bing, she smiled very sweetly at him and said that she must join the others. Bing asked her not to forget "Saturday at eight", while he carefully folded Sue's address and put it in his pocket. Tommy's misery at this turn of events was reflected in his misty eyes. The boys heartlessly flashed "I told you so" glances in his direction, and the girls were for once at a loss for words. As for Mrs. Evans, it was hard to tell just what she was thinking, for she suddenly and thoroughly fainted.

Special News Bulletin

Stand by for special announcement!

Ladies and gentlemen! We interrupt this program to bring to you a scoop from Barringer High School. The will of the class of January 1937, which was thought to be lost, has been found. We know all of you have been eagerly waiting to hear its contents, so without further comment your announcer gives you the "Last Will and Testament of the class of January '1937."

Of course, there are some things that must remain: the inevitable three-minute rush before gym, the inescapable lunch room hotdog, the office bench, on which a few choice Barringerites perch. However, there are bequests which we feel will be of inestimable value to those individuals fortunate enough to receive them.

Item: To some timid Freshman with an inferiority complex we bequeath Herman Alberson's loud checks and plaids. They are designed to banish any complex.

Item: To various and sundry males who would like to make headway with the opposite sex, we hereby will a fraction of Roy Thompson's manly charm. (It's extremely potent and is guaranteed to get results.)

Item: To any miss who wishes to brighten up, we bequeath "Icky" Kreidler's "snazzy" shirts. (If they don't do things to you, we don't know what will.)

Item: To the 4B class fund we do will and bequeath Patsy Marzulli's money. (Unfortunately we have just discovered it isn't Patsy's money after all. Sorry!)

Item: To some pale, colorless lass we do will and bequeath Virginia Conner's rosy cheeks. Of course Virginia needs her cheeks, but you get the idea don't you?

Item: In Josephine Sica do we find both pulchritude and grey matter, so to some maid who may lack both or either we do will and bequeath Josephine's assets.

Item: To the poor tongue-tied soul with nary a word to say we do will and bequeath Caroline Martino's gift of gab. Caroline's supply is inexhaustible.

Item: If there are any whose appetite is not all an appetite should be, we do will and bequeath Al Zoppa's "yen" for those inevitable lunch-room hot dogs. We confidently expect those "dogs" to bark in the lunch-room as long as this noble edifice stands.

Item: For those misguided youths whose footsteps on the sands of time have not been lasting, we leave you Tom Cuomo's footsteps. Tom will go right on making new ones.

Item: To any harassed Junior, who has not learned the magic of laughter, we do will and bequeath "Jo" Iannarone's laugh. We have put up with it for four long years and are glad to pass it on.

Item: To a little girl whose purse contains everything but the wherewithal to gaze at herself we do will and bequeath "Dot" Collins' mirror. It will come in handy for the last minute peep before you keep that date.

Item: To those of you who have never visited the office and so have missed the thrill of squirming on the bench we do will and bequeath Billerman's unique faculty for landing that signal honor.

Item: To some struggling special composition class member we give to you with our best wishes Armand Rotonda's composition writing gift. We don't know how far you'll get with it, but give it a trial anyhow.

Item: To a little freshman still in short pants we do will and bequeath a half a foot or so of Jack King's altitude. You'll soon rate long trousers.

Item: To some boisterous lass who has not yet learned where and when to hold her tongue we would like to recommend Grace Grant as a fitting example to follow.

Item: To some maid whose disposition has soured we do will and bequeath Alva Thelin's sweetness. A little dissolved in your life will make you as sweet as sugar.

Item: To some lover of classical music who has never felt the "pixilating" effects of "swing" we do will and bequeath Fred Gaeta's scintillating rhythms. Fred's got music, hot music, in his soul.

Your announcer has been Mary Fairscey.

BUILD YOUR YEARBOOK WITH MASTER CRAFTSMEN

. . . FINE QUALITY PRINTING IS nowhere so essential as in school and college annuals. The story told by copy is worthless unless the printed pages provide eloquent testimony of its truthful reproduction of campus life.

Production of distinctive printing depends upon the masterful handling of such technicalities as layout, artwork, make-ready, and presswork, and also upon the selection of proper ink, paper and binding. Consistently, good printing has made the Colyer Organization the choice of leading schools and colleges.
